Developing Oral Language in Young Children

Supporting Oral Language in the Early Learning Years
The S.O.L.E.L.Y. Series

Educators and community members are invited to attend a webinar series on the importance of having meaningful and intentional interactions between adults and children, which expand language skills and increase comprehension in children.

Join us as Dana Winters of the Fred Rogers Center along with Junlei Li from Harvard University's Human Development and Education Program share a proven approach called "Simple Interactions" to positively connect with children to improve oral language development.
