

ANTIRACISM MODULES

SELF-PACED
MODULES

As we continue to address discipline disproportionality, antibias, and antiracism across the district and our community, there are a variety of modules available for staff members. Modules engage participants in self-reflection on why race matters in education and how to become active in interrupting racism around us.

Modules are all self-paced, or available for facilitation upon request.

COURAGEOUS CONVERSATIONS ABOUT RACE

Staff members who have participated in Courageous Conversations about Race or Beyond Diversity are encouraged to utilize those protocols and hold space to continue those conversations. Specific facilitation on topics are available upon request. Additional Courageous Conversations about Race and Beyond Diversity seminars will be held throughout the year.

HISTORY OF RACE

In working to being anti-racist in our role in education, one must understand the historical and contemporary role of race around us.

MICROAGGRESSIONS

One way bias presents itself in education is through an individual's use of microaggressions, or verbal, behavioral, or environmental indignities towards marginalized groups.

MULTIPLE PERSPECTIVES

In working towards being anti-racist, one must ensure to engage in conversation and understanding with individuals with other perspectives, experiences, beliefs, and racial identities.

ALLYSHIP & BEING ANTIRACIST

How can one continually work on being an anti-racist educator and actively interrupt racism around us.

Modules available on LMS Curricula "Antiracism."

More information contact Jon Jagemann (jagemaj@milwaukee.k12.wi.us)